

Volunteer Management in the time of COVID-19:

A virtual workshop

Join International expert Rob Jackson, exploring volunteer management and recruitment and how we can re-energise our volunteering programs to inspire fresh – and former - volunteers to join us once again under the world's new 'normal'.

Online: Tuesday November 17th

Time: 4pm – 7:00pm (includes a short break)

Cost per participant: $50.00

(Please advise Centre for Participation if you require an invoice.

Book early to save your place)

Register online at centreforparticipation.org.au

Internationally renowned author and expert in volunteerism and volunteer management, Rob is based in the United Kingdom. He will be leading the workshop from there. He has been a regular facilitator of a number of highly praised workshops at Centre for Participation these past few years.

Rob communicates clearly and plainly about what coordinators and managers of volunteer programs need to do to inspire and lead volunteers to great things. Please join us in this unique workshop and reap the benefits.

RSVP: info@centreforparticipation.org.au

Or call 03 5382 5607 9am-3pm Mon-Fri

This workshop will be held online. Participants are requested to check their access to a working microphone and webcam to get the most from this event. Total participant capacity is 50.